

New Authority Parenting

Building Stronger Families

Non-Violent Resistance (NVR): An integrated, structured and systemic response to child to parent violence and abuse.

Tuesday, May 22nd (9.30am – 5pm)
&
Wednesday, May 23rd, 2018 (9.30am – 5pm)

Training in the NVR programme, designed by Dr Declan Coogan (NUIG), is delivered over two days. Completing this training will support practitioners to understand, identify and respond to Child to Parent Violence and Abuse – an increasing concern in child and family work. On completion of this course, you will be ready to facilitate parent groups or to work individually with parents who have lost their authority in the relationship with their child.

There is growing evidence that building or restoring parental authority through NVR is also proving to be successful in addressing child and adolescent anxiety and self harm. NVR is increasingly being used in foster care to reduce conflict and strengthen relationships. Join the growing number of child welfare practitioners around Ireland and Europe who are using NVR successfully.

The training is provided by Tara Kelly and Catrina Scanlan of New Authority Parenting. Both are practitioners, supervisors and trainers in the NVR programme. Having completed their training as NVR practitioners and trainers with Dr Coogan, they each bring this new and innovative programme – combined with extensive experience with children and families – to their training days.

For details and booking forms, please see <http://newauthorityparenting.ie>

Venue: Blackrock Education Centre, Kill Avenue, Dunlaoghaire,
Co.Dublin
<http://www.blackrockec.ie/>

Cost: €245 to include a light lunch, tea and coffee on both days.

Further enquiries: Tara Kelly (tara@newauthorityparenting.ie)
Catrina Scanlan (catrina@newauthorityparenting.ie)